Wow Effect Storytelling

Do you agree that the social distancing we are facing because of hectic daylife, Covid and spacers social network is making people lonely and less happy?

Imagine if... you could have access to nearby people, find those with similar interests to yours, all without intentionally searching for them, therefore without embarrassment.

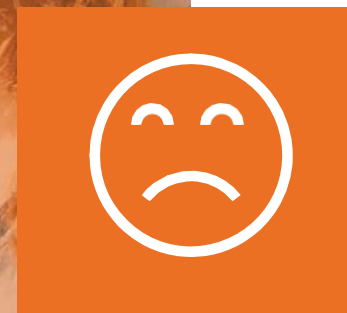

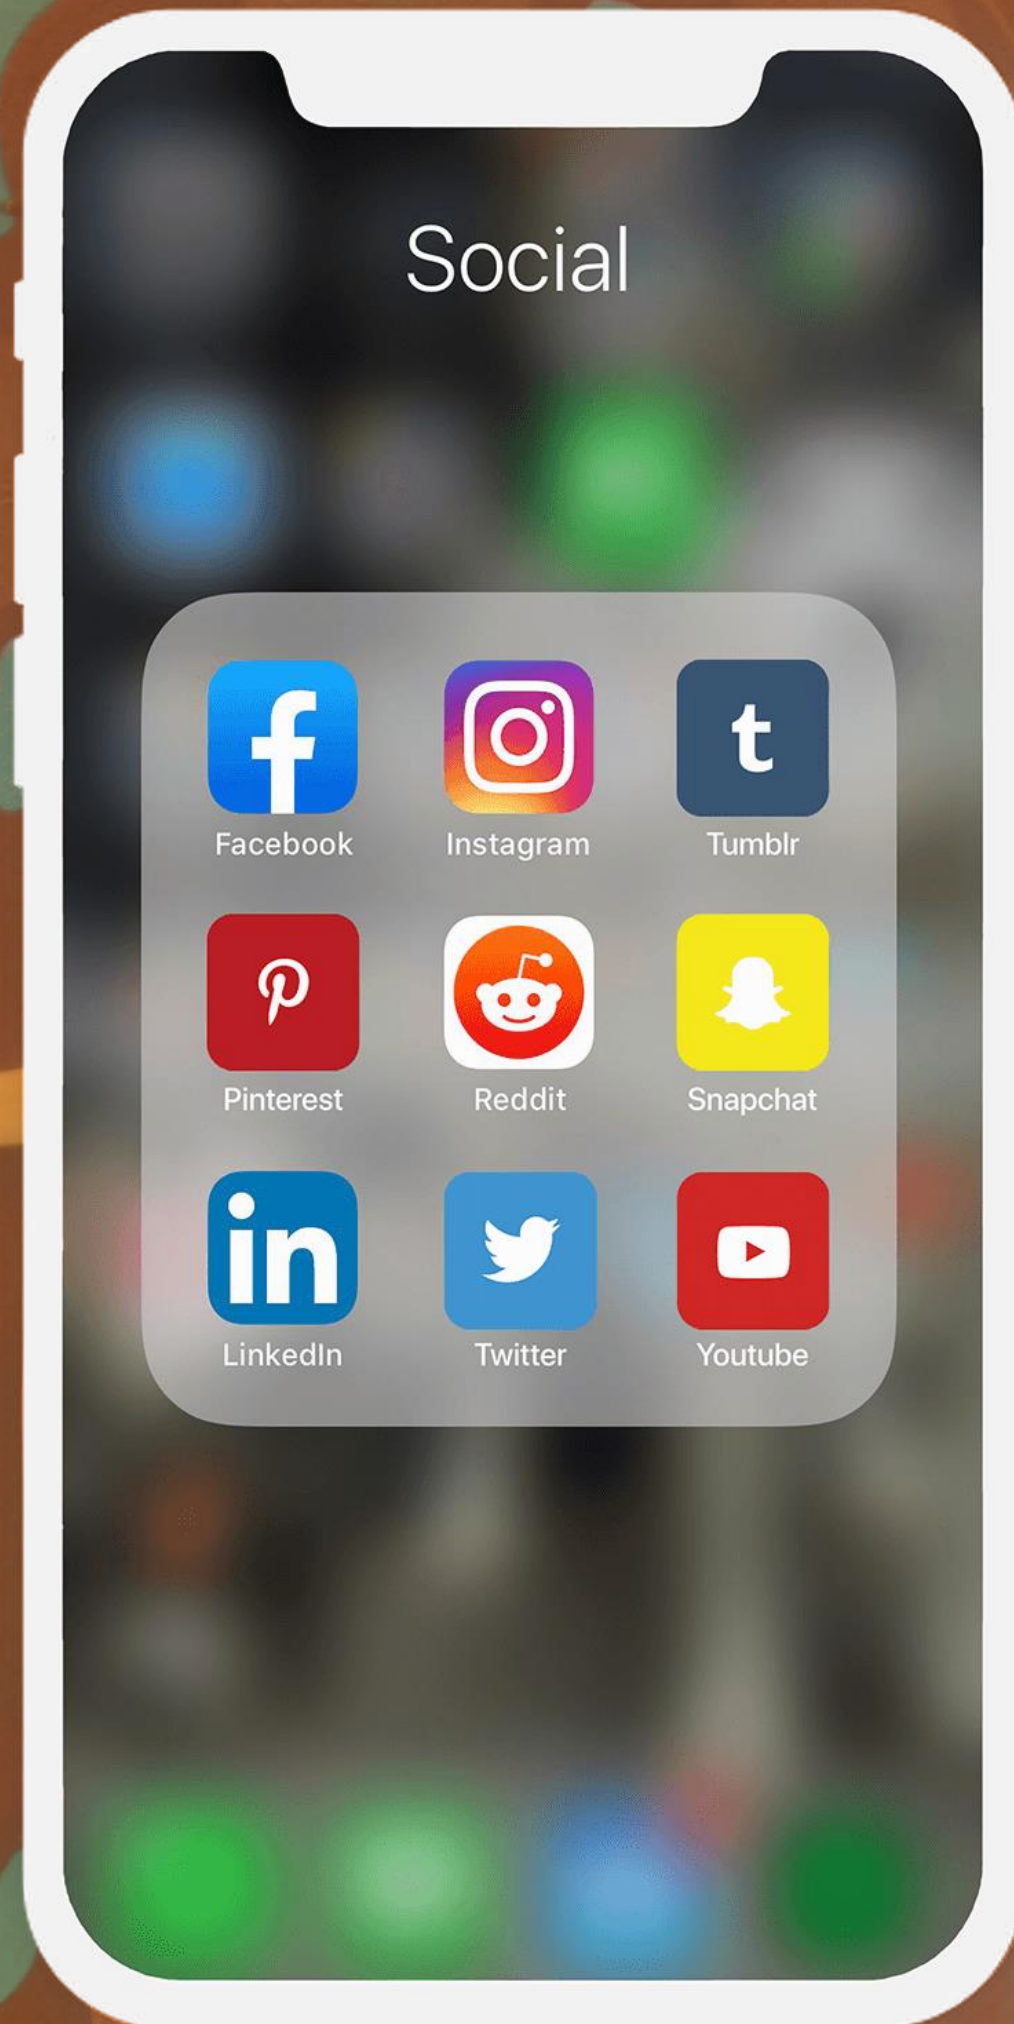

Real-time shared interest local connection network.

Provide social network users a tool that enables them to connect meaningfully with each other 10X faster by having them meet in person wherever they are.

Use Your Phone To Do Something Else

Problem

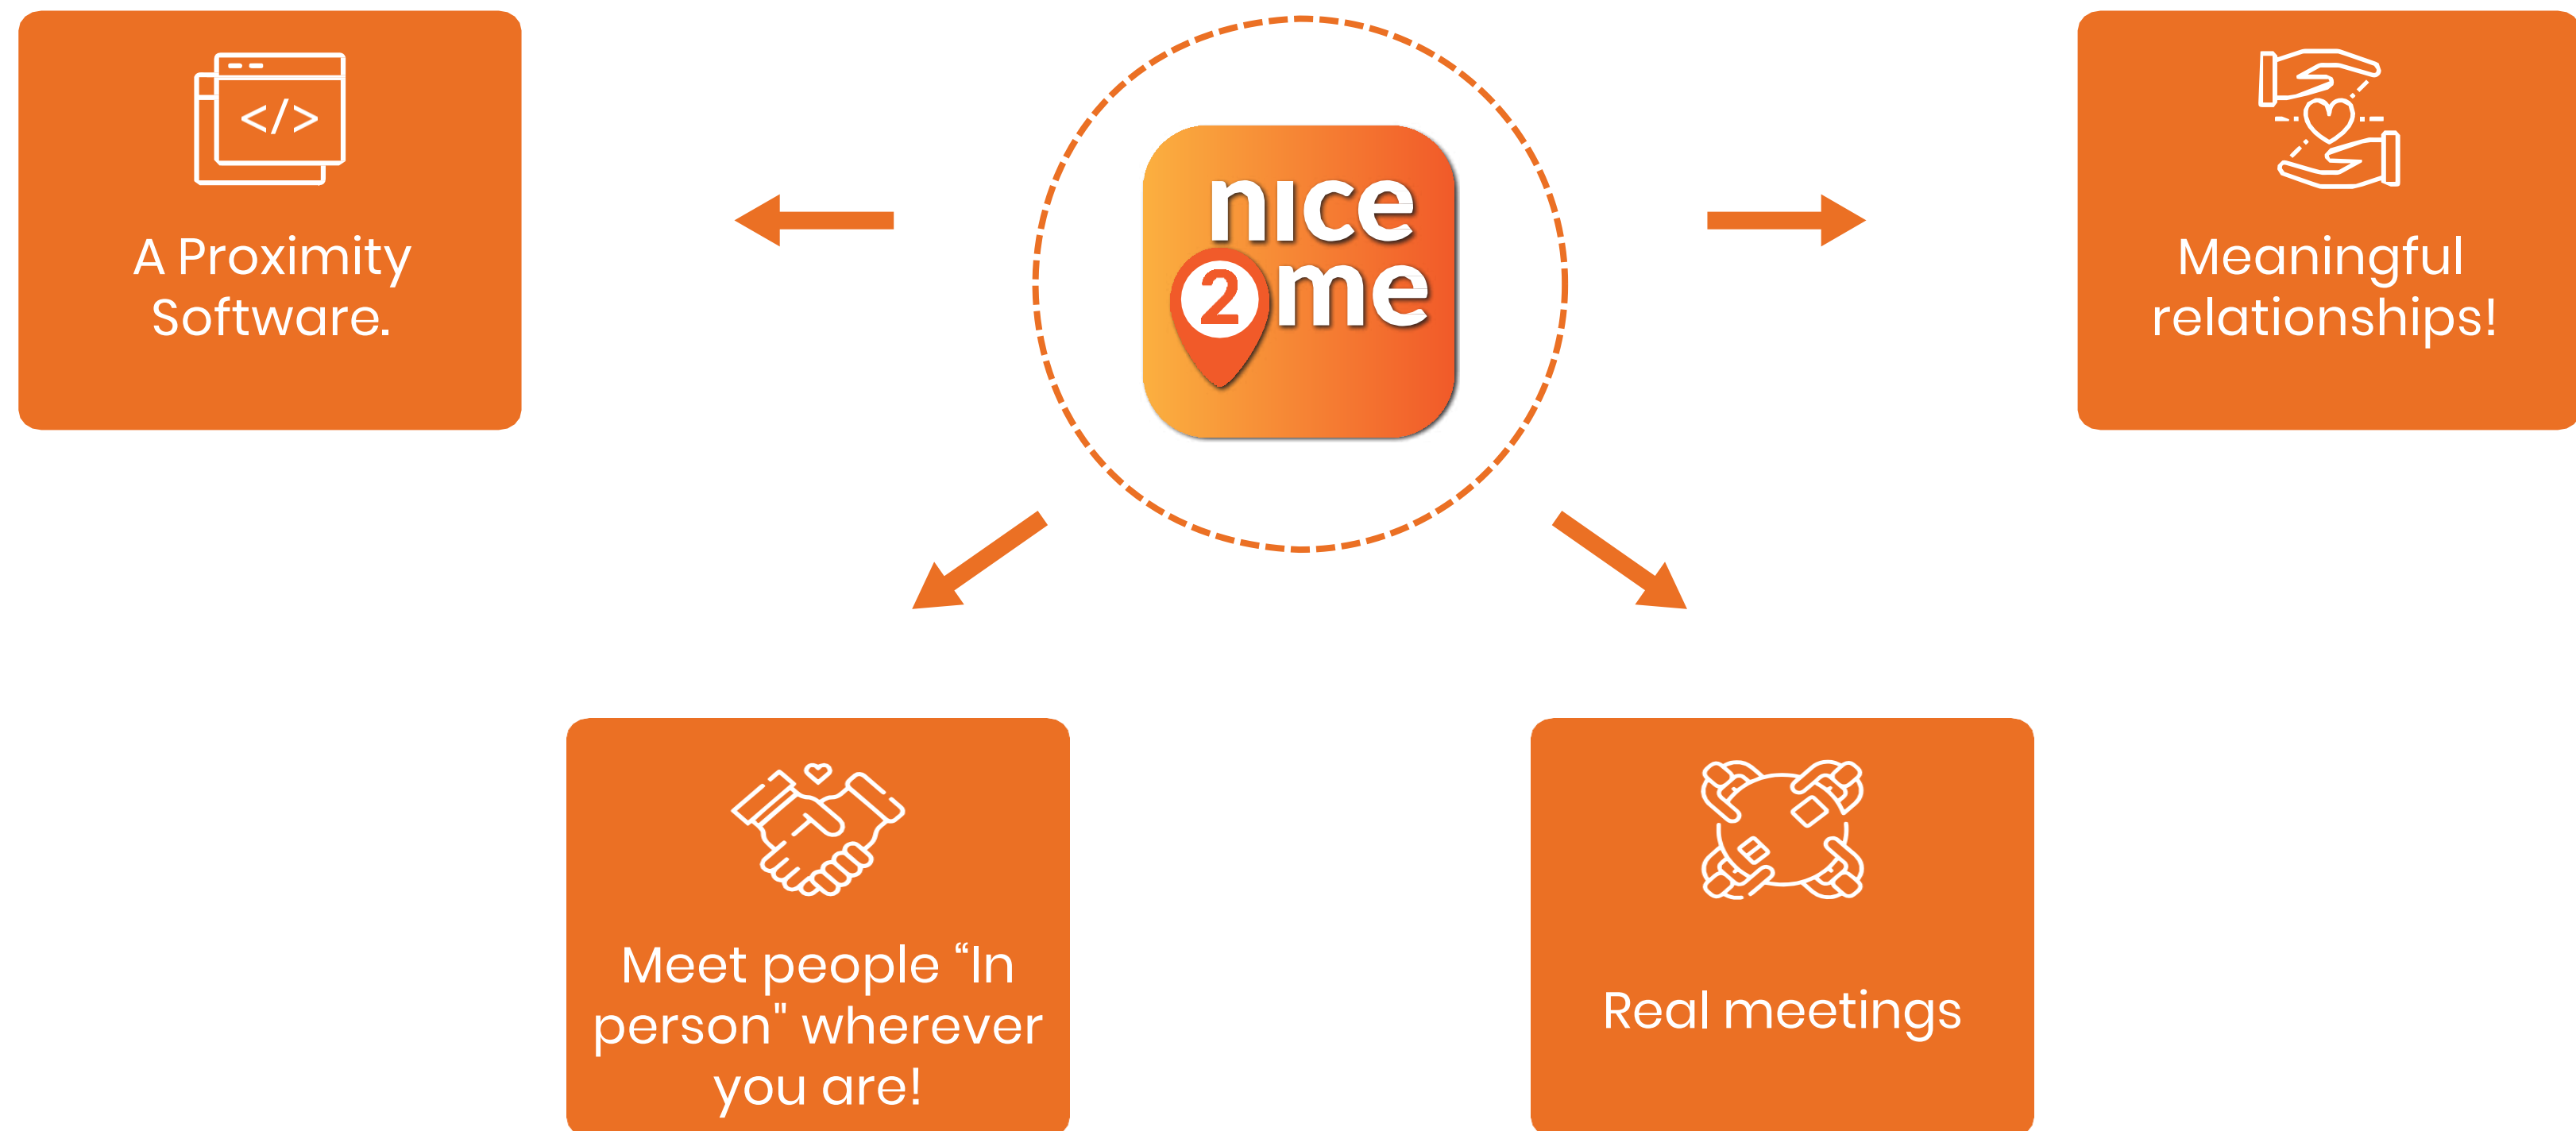

Today virtual relationships are increasingly limiting the ability to be happy.

People need to meet in the real world.

Solutions

Validation

A survey of over 147 people confirmed our assumptions about virtual social networks.

- They keep people lonely by increasing the social distance
 - The first approach with another person is difficult.
 - It's challenging to find people with real common interests.
 - The meeting process is too slow.
- A survey of over 147 people also confirmed our assumptions about "in person" meetings
 - People is interested to have info about nearby similar people in order to meet them live
 - In person meetings increase the level of happiness
 - People is strongly oriented to meet other people live
